BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Set thy house in order for thou shalt die and not live.—2 Kings 20:1.

Yet every day men die before they have set their house in order. It is never too early to provide for the future. Some accumulate material treasures they must leave behind, and often to the hurt of the surviving ones.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Farm revolt in Kansas may mean close vote next November; Governor Hall of Kansas is up-and-coming GOP leader; Elder Statesman Landon sees trouble ahead.

WASHINGTON.—The other day I went out to Topeka, Kansas, to talk to two leaders of the Republican party about the smoldering farm-belt resentment and what GOP leaders in Washington should do about it.

One of the men I talked to, Alf Landon, had led his party as candidate for president exactly two decades ago. The other, Landon's protégé, Fred Hall, is the youngest Republican governor in the nation.

Landon I found in shirtsleeves, looking philosophically out over the Kansas prairies from his skyscraper office building. He has grown old gracefully, shows no bitterness over the way his party let him down in the 1936 Roosevelt landslide. He rides horseback in the morning, catches up with his mail—especially long letters to my old partner, Bob Allen, drills a few oil wells and enjoys life. Alf will be 70 on his next birthday.

His young friend, Governor Hall, who Alf helped elect, is restless, dynamic, bursting with energy in his fight against old guard Republicanism. With the GOP primary still months away, the governor came direct from his campaign headquarters to lunch in the governor's mansion. He was already charting his battle against the old guard faction which has ruled Kansas for years.

ADAMS GIVES ADVICE That faction includes some of Eisenhower's good friends. Yet Hall, himself strong for Eisenhower, has defeated them three different times in races for lieutenant governor and governor. He predicts he will do so again this year.

The like friends are: Frank Carlson, U. S. senator from Kansas, close to the White House and a personal friend of the president.

Harry Darby, of Kansas City, Kans., Republican National committeeman, and one of the original drafters of Eisenhower for president.

To them young Governor Fred

Hall is an upstart who challenges their right to dominate Kansas. And though it's traditional for a Republican governor of Kansas to be unopposed by his own party for a second term, nevertheless the old guard this time is not sticking with tradition. It is out to defeat Hall. Furthermore, the old guard indirectly tried to enlist White House support to do it.

Last fall when the young governor of Kansas came to Washington for the Governor's conference, Assistant President Sherman Adams sent for him.

"We hope," he admonished, "there won't be any trouble in Kansas. President Eisenhower doesn't want anything to happen to his friends. So we hope you won't let anyone run against Senator Carlson for re-election and will not challenge Harry Darby for the National committee."

Governor Hall told Adams he was just as anxious as anyone to keep peace in the party, but, shortly after he got back to Kansas, he found that Ike's friends Carlson and Darby weren't. And though he carried out his pledge to Adams not to oppose either, the governor found he was being opposed by them. They have entered a Republican candidate against him in the primary.

So, you're going to see a knock-down, drag-out battle inside the Republican party in Kansas.

CLOSE RACE IN KANSAS

Later I talked to Elder Statesman Landon about this fight. Specifically I asked him: "Is the farm revolt such that a miracle might happen and Kansas go Democratic?"

Landon was careful.

"You have all the ingredients here that you had in 1936," he said. "Then you had drought. You had sliding farm prices. You had bitter dissension inside the Republican party. And George Magill, a young Democrat whom nobody had ever heard of, was elected to the Senate."

"Now it's almost the same," diagnosed Landon. "You have drought. You have a widening gap between farm prices and what the farmer buys. And you have dissension within the Republican party—opposition to a second term for the governor.

"With Ike running, he'll probably carry the state," concluded the Republican who once ran for president himself, "but it won't be easy."

Visiting with Governor Hall at his executive mansion, an old Tudor-type building that looked like my grandfather's home in Parsons, Kans., I asked him why the rip-roaring, Bull-Moose state of William Allen White and Henry Allen had now gone conservative.

"I suppose it's because during the depression so many young people moved away," he said. "They couldn't find jobs here, so they left for the East or California. The old people stayed behind and old people are sometimes conservative."

"But, basically," he added, "Kansans are still progressive."

There's a tremendous core of good government people in our towns. They want honest government, and that's the core of my support."

KANSAS LOBBYISTS

Governor Hall was an enthusiastic supporter of President Eisenhower when Ike vetoed the gas bill. Senators Carlson and Schoepel of Kansas were not.

"We had the lobbyists doing the same thing in our legislature," Hall said, referring to the gas lobbyists. "On the last day the cigarette lobbyists were passing out cartons of free cigarettes right on the Senate floor, brazenly walking up and down the aisle passing out free cartons. The Senate had just defeated a cigarette tax. That was how highhanded these lobbyists can get."

Fred Hall is one of the few Republican governors who has been friendly to labor. They like him, have vigorously supported him in a state where labor usually votes Democratic.

In many respects, he and his elder adviser, Alf Landon, represent the progressive, Teddy Roosevelt wing of the Republican party which had part of its grass roots in Kansas. And if the GOP is looking for new life and new blood to inject into a "grand old party" where red corpses have been a little weak at times they would do well to scrutinize carefully the energetic young man from Topeka.

France Hurls Might Against Algeria Rebels

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — France threw its full military might today against the 16-month-old rebellion in Algeria.

France clamped down on the restive populace with virtual martial law, ordered massive troops reinforcements for the sprawling North African possession and sent the fleet steaming across the Mediterranean to blockade the coast.

As France put into effect the emergency measures of a sweeping decree, the Moslem president of the Algerian assembly resigned. The resignation Sunday night of Abd El Kader was considered a blow to French aims to maintain and strengthen a "Franco-Moslem community" which would keep Algeria tied to metropolitan France.

French Resident Minister Robert LaCoste warned that all rebels will be judged swiftly by military tribunals and that desertion of Moslem soldiers with their arms will be punished by death.

LaCoste said France's long-awaited crackdown on Algeria takes priority even over her NATO commitments for European defense and that new reservists will be called up by the thousands. Two armored NATO divisions will be rushed to Algeria immediately.

Dr. L. I. Webb Tours Baptist Mission Stations in Mexico

Dr. L. I. Webb, Harrisburg dentist, is in Mexico this week touring mission stations of the Southern Baptist convention.

Dr. Webb and other laymen of the Southern Baptist church met in Laredo, Texas, Friday of last week to be briefed on their mission and then were divided into groups of five men each.

They will spend approximately 10 days travelling throughout Old Mexico, visiting all the Southern Baptist mission stations in that country.

Disarmament Talks Open in London

LONDON (AP) — The world's five major atomic powers opened disarmament talks here today with the United States pressing for a hurry-up plan for limitations on nuclear weapons now.

Stevenson, Kefauver to Clash Head-On in Primary In Minnesota Tuesday

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson makes a last bid for votes today on the heels of Sen. Estes Kefauver's stumping tour in their first head-on test of strength in Tuesday's Minnesota presidential primary.

Kefauver left the state on the eve of the election to vote on the Senate farm bill in Washington. He said he was convinced that he has cut deeply into Stevenson's edge.

Stevenson, Kefauver's rival in the Democratic primary, returns to Minnesota tonight in a last bid for votes. His supporters conceded that the Tennessee has gained ground, but predicted Stevenson would still walk away with all of Minnesota's 30 delegates votes.

Tuesday's primary is the first head-on clash between the two candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination. Kefauver won handily over a slate of delegates favorable to Stevenson in last week's New Hampshire primary, but Stevenson did not campaign in that state.

Kefauver has much to win in the Minnesota race and Stevenson has much to lose. The Tennessee, a self-proclaimed underdog, could claim a major victory if he cuts deeply into Stevenson's margin. Stevenson, heavily favored at the start of the Minnesota campaign, must probably win big over Kefauver to keep his bandwagon rolling in high gear.

The Democratic primary battle overshadows the Republican race, where voters have a choice between President Eisenhower and Sen. William Knowland of California. Knowland's name was entered before the President expressed willingness to run for reelection and the senator has since thrown his support behind Mr. Eisenhower.

Republican leaders are not encouraging any write-in vote for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, such as furnished the surprise of the New Hampshire race. A Nixon write-in vote would invalidate the ballot and cut down the Eisenhower total, the GOP officials pointed out.

Stephen Mitchell Predicts 'Real Scandals' by State Administration

SPRINGFIELD — Stephen A. Mitchell, former Democratic national chairman, Sunday predicted there will be "real scandals" revealed in the present Republican state administration before next fall's election.

Mitchell spoke at a Sangamon County Democratic organization meeting Sunday morning after appearing at a "Sons of Erin" dinner Saturday night.

He said Gov. William G. Stratton had charged in a speech in New York that the administration of former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson had included a horsemeat scandal, a mine disaster and failures in the public welfare, school aid and highway programs.

Mitchell said "it is interesting" that Stratton originally made the charges in New York. "Next time he had better go to Mexico where people aren't acquainted with the facts," he said.

Mitchell said the sale of some horsemeat as beef was "a failure of an individual," referring to the bribery of the state food inspection chief. He said Stevenson promptly gave "the full facts" on the inspection failure to county prosecutors.

"That was a lot different than Stratton's method with a fellow like Brown (former State Police Superintendent Phil M. Brown) for whom he finds another job at the same salary," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said Stevenson raised state aid to schools 54 per cent in his first biennium as governor and another 10 per cent the second biennium. He said a 24 per cent increase in two bienniums under Stratton "doesn't look like such a big achievement," especially since he did it with the help of higher taxes.

Mitchell said Stratton has "junked" the free highway program in favor of a 415 million dollar toll road program that "benefits only investment bankers."

Mitchell said Stratton has raised taxes to a point where he gets $1.25 for every $1 in taxes collected under Stevenson. He said Stratton's state spending is higher than the expenditures under Stevenson.

Author Louis Bromfield Dies

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Louis Bromfield, 59, noted author, lecturer and conservationist who contributed many new principles to scientific farming, died Sunday night of a liver and kidney infection.

The Pulitzer-prize winning novelist was admitted to University Hospital here Feb. 28 for treatment of homologous serum jaundice. He spent the last 24 hours of life in a coma and died at 8:32 p. m.

His first novel, "The Green Bay Tree" was published in 1924. He was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for his "Early Autumn" published in 1928.

He made several trips to India, which inspired what is probably his best-known novel "The Rains Came," upon which a motion picture was based.

His Ohio farm, Malabar, became famous as a place for trying new and often controversial farming methods, as well as a gathering place for statesmen, editors, businessmen, professors, actors, writers and professional men.

2-Year Course in Commercial Art Offered at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A new two year professional course in commercial art has been announced by the Southern Illinois University Division of Technical and Adult Education.

The course will lead to the degree of Associate in Technology and offers students majors in advertising layout and production, advertising and story illustration, fashion illustration and lettering and design. Students may elect one or a combination of any two major fields for special emphasis.

The 72-week course schedule includes classes in drawing and composition, figure drawing, lettering and layout, advertising art, English fundamentals, problems of American democracy, print shop theory, salesmanship, personal public relations and business speaking.

The addition of commercial art brings to 14 the number of major fields of study for associate degrees in the day school program of Southern's Vocational-Technical Institute. Shorter courses for certificates are offered in six other fields.

Richard Morton, former television and advertising agency artist who will teach the commercial art classes, said the course facilities also will serve students taking architectural drawing and retailing majors at VTI.

"We are completely equipped to give specialized training in all areas of commercial art work," Morton said. "The field is growing and offers tremendous opportunities."

Prospective students may obtain registration information by writing the Office of the Dean, Vocational Technical Institute, Southern Illinois University.

Local Physicians Receive Information From Polio Foundation

Harrisburg physicians have received from the National Foundation the latest information on taking Salk polio shots.

The information has been divided into three parts, as follows:

1. Do not give booster shots between now and July 1. There is minimal risk, if, in fact, any at all, in giving primary or booster shots during the polio season.

2. The exact interval between the first and second dose is not critical, so long as it is not less than two weeks. In fact, longer intervals seem to be advantageous; therefore, the second dose may be given at any time without losing the benefit of the first.

3. However, the third dose should be given not less than seven months after the second, but may be given at any length of time hereafter without losing the benefits of the previous inoculations.

"Bring Your Paint Problems to Paint People"

Rudy Kay, Savage In Ring, Intellectual Out, One of Wrestlers Here Saturday

Rudy Kay, called "an intellectual with a savage makeup," will be one of the wrestlers on the big wrestling program to be staged at Davenport gymnasium, Harrisburg, Saturday at 8:15 p. m.

Kay will team with Zack Malkov in the Australian tag match. Both call Chicago their home town.

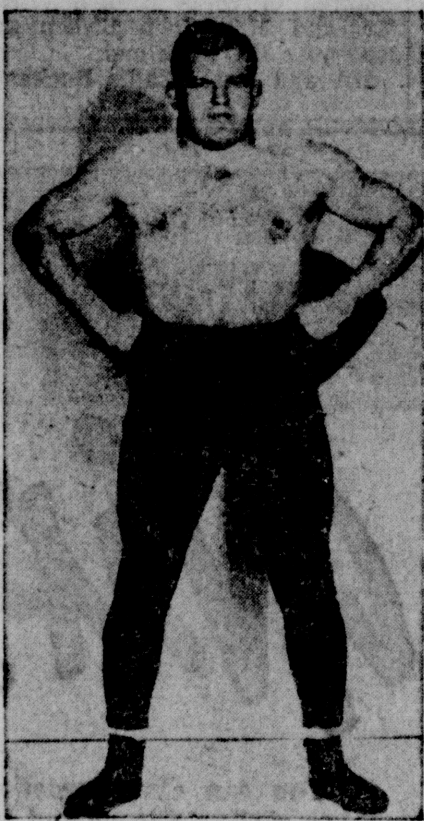

Wrestling crowds in Chicago and New York, along with other places, have howled with hatred in their hearts at Kay because of his rough and tumble tactics in the wrestling ring.

There's the nasty habit which this 240-pounder possesses of hammering the heads of opponents against ring posts. Sometimes he employs his body slam which can break a bone or two. There've been a dozen or more cases of the ring collapsing, so that carpenters have been called on to patch things up.

Fifteen years of this turmoil should keep a man in a nervous and angry state. But outside the ring, Rudy appears relaxed. He'll slip on his goggles, listen to highly-cultural music, or read a spot of Shakespeare or discuss literature with a few friends in one of the five languages he speaks.

Then too, he might rig up a fancy meal either in the German or Mexican or French flavor. Never can tell what Rudy is apt to do. Versatility is his middle name.

Strange things happen to him when the gon sounds and he's ready for action. He cannot contain a temper which began to arise in Chicago when a giant named Gorilla Grubmyer put eighteen stitches in his scalp a decade back. "I decided that the way to survive this business," says Rudy, "is to dish it out in no uncertain terms. Let the fans hate me if they will. They're not taking the kind of punishment I am. They don't know my problems. Hate? You

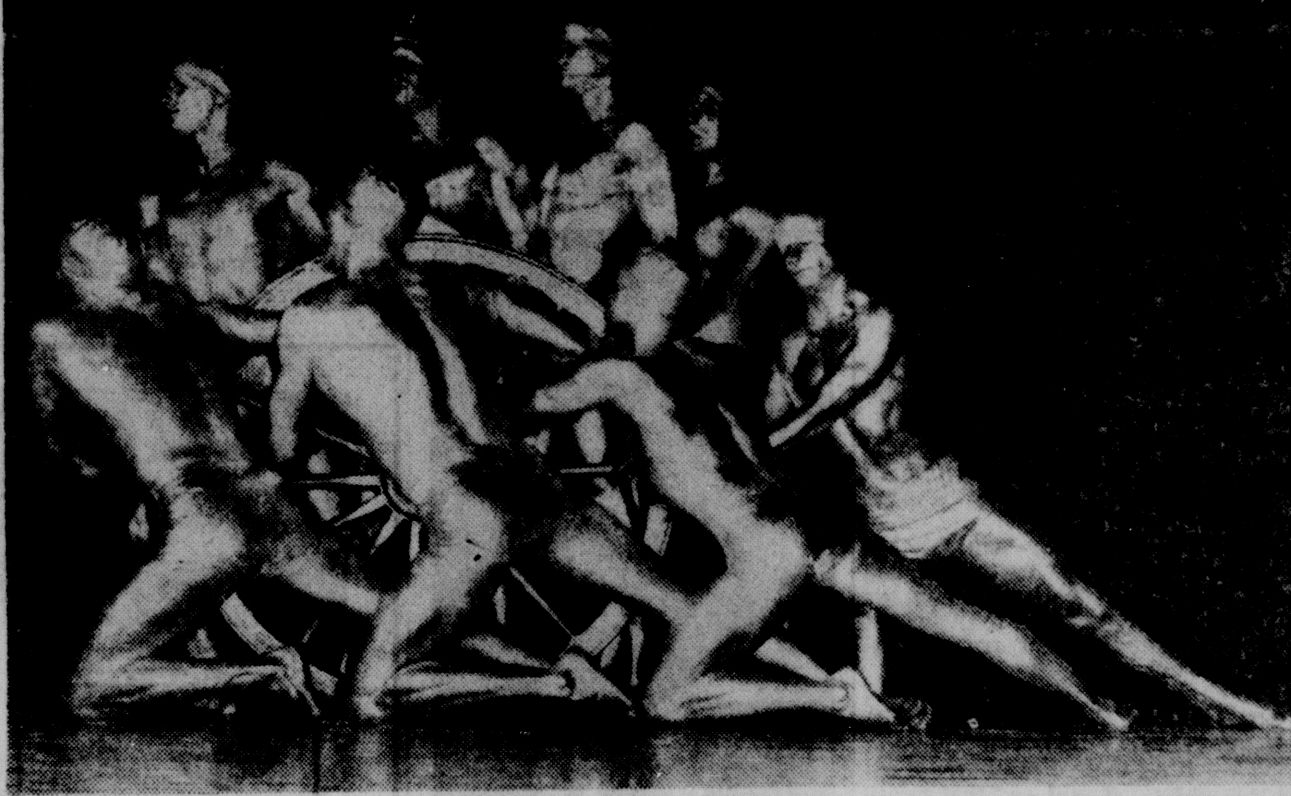

Rudy Kay can get accustomed to it in time.

And so Rudy has. The number of howling nights behind him are lost in count. The number of bashed heads are wicked memories, but he rolls on and on with a mixed personality, an intellectual who turns into a savage!

Tickets for the wrestling show, sponsored by the Harrisburg Lions club, are available at two business places in Harrisburg.

The Webster Pharmacy has ring-side and reserve seats, at $2.50 and $2. General admission tickets, at $1.50, may be purchased at Woolworth's.

Seeded Teams Meet in NIT Quarter-Finals

NEW YORK (AP)—The seeded teams swing into action as favorites tonight in the quarter-final round of the National Invitation tournament with Louisville picked over Duquesne and Niagara over St. Francis of Brooklyn.

In each case, height was the factor that established the favorite with 6-8 Charley Tyra of Louisville and 6-7 Tommy Hemans of Niagara seen as the key men.

Louisville (23-3) is second seeded; Niagara (20-6) is fourth-seeded. The quarter-final round will be concluded Tuesday night when top-seeded Dayton meets surprising Xavier of Ohio and third-seeded

St. Joseph's plays Seton Hall. Xavier, the only team to provide a surprise in the first round of competition on Saturday among the unseeded teams, provided still another eyebrow-lifter today when it dismissed star center Dave Piontek from the squad.

The 6-5 Piontek, who played a major role in Xavier's 84-80 upset of St. Louis, was dropped for violation of training rules according to the announcement by Athletic Director Al Stephan.

Coach Ned Wulk explained that Piontek had not returned to his hotel room early at 3:45 a. m. Sunday despite a 1:30 a. m. curfew placed on team members. The coach said Piontek, a 21-year-old senior from Pittsburgh, had been temporarily suspended from the squad earlier this season when he missed a curfew at Buffalo, N. Y., on Jan. 2, where Xavier was playing in the Queen City tournament.

Hawks Defeat Lakers in First Game of Playoff

By United Press
The St. Louis Hawks, one up on the Minneapolis Lakers in their Western Division playoff series of the National Basketball Assn., hope to end it all tonight when they meet the Lakers in Minneapolis.

The Hawks came from behind in St. Louis Saturday night to defeat the Lakers, 116-115, and a victory tonight would clinch the series for them in their best-of-three play off. The winner of this series will meet the division champion Fort Wayne Pistons in the semifinal playoffs.

A Laker victory would mean they'll meet again on Wednesday night again in Minneapolis.

In the Eastern Division, the Boston Celtics defeated the Syracuse Nationals, 110-93, Saturday to take the lead, and will be trying to clinch the series tonight against the Nats in Syracuse. A third game if necessary, will be played in Boston Tuesday night.

Jester Relieved of Duties as Coach At Champaign

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Harold Jester was "relieved of his duties" as head basketball coach at Champaign high school Saturday.

Athletic director Roy Swindell who made the announcement, said Jester had been offered a contract as head track and cross country coach and "has indicated he will accept."

Champaign was defeated by Rantoul in state tournament regional play this year to climax a disappointing season. Jester had won six regional titles and three sectionals in his nine years as head coach. He served for four years as an assistant to Harry Combes at Champaign, before Combes became coach at the University of Illinois.

Swindell said the school will start screening candidates for Jester's job in a few weeks.

Warm Greeting At Rockford for West's Warriors

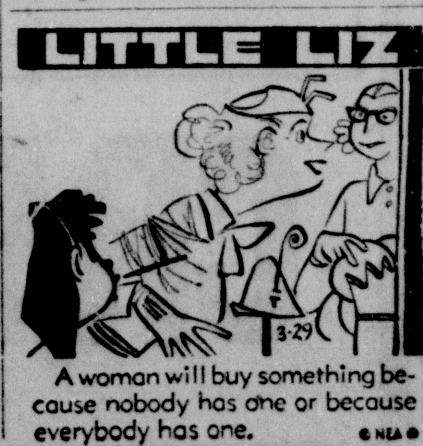

ROCKFORD (AP)—Backslapping and warm handshakes greeted the basketball heroes of West High of Rockford today when they returned to their classes after successfully defending the school's state crown.

Principal James Blue invited Rockford East, St. Thomas, and Harlem high school students to a special assembly this morning, but said classes would proceed as normal afterwards.

For the 1,000 pupils at the school, things were anything but normal as they basked in the glory of the championship.

Police Chief Thomas Boustead estimated at least 90,000 happy fans crowded the downtown section of Rockford to provide a huge welcoming party for the team Sunday.

West Rockford State Champs Second Year with Win Over Edwardsville

Defeat Tigers, 67-65, in Beautifully Played Contest

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER
United Press Sports Writer
CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Rockford West today was the state prep champ for the second year in a row and both titles were won by two-point margins in thrilling games.

West's Warriors took their second championship Saturday night 67-65 over Edwardsville, but they weren't sure of the crown until Tiger Center Governor Vaughn's off the backboard as the final gun sounded.

In the 1955 title game, Rockford West won 61-59 as Frank Smith held the ball just a second too long for Elgin in a similar climactic finish.

Only Elgin in 1924-25 and Mount Vernon in 1949-50 had won two years straight.

West Coach Alex Saudargas said he thought the Saturday night contest was a "nicer game" than last year's Elgin game. He said the score was closer throughout than in the Elgin game, when Elgin at one point went 18 points up.

Officiating Seems Improved

Saudargas didn't say, but he may have also been referring to some of the controversial officiating which marked the game with Elgin. There were few disagreements Saturday in the beautifully played Edwardsville-Rockford West match.

Edwardsville gave away an inch-and-a-half per man to the big Warriors, and more than that in the front line, where West had Nolden

Dons, SMU, Iowa, Temple in NCAA Semifinals

By United Press
San Francisco's brilliance even without All-American K. C. Jones established the defending champion Dons today as overwhelming favorites over the three other survivors in the NCAA basketball tournament—SMU, Iowa, and Temple.

It will be San Francisco vs. SMU and Iowa vs. Temple in the semifinals at Evanston, Ill., on Thursday night, with the two "hot" streakers, San Francisco and Iowa favored to reach the finals.

And the defending champion Dons must be rated heavier favorites than ever to walk away with the top prize, in view of the way they swept through their first two games in the tourney—72-61 over UCLA and 92-77 over Utah.

The other tourney teams had hoped that the loss of Jones through ineligibility as a fourth-year man would make the Dons a much weaker outfit. But soph Gene Brown has stepped capably into Jones' shoes with 41 points in the two games to completely wipe out that hope. And All-American Bill Russell, the Dons' 6-10 center showed that post-season play has dulled none of his sparkle, either.

SMU, on the other hand, had to fight to a one-point win over Texas Tech before drubbing Oklahoma City, 84-63, at Lawrence, Kans., on Saturday night.

And Temple edged Canisius by only 60-58 at Philadelphia on Hal Lear's pair of free throws with two seconds to play. Iowa appeared more formidable in downing Kentucky, 89-77, at Iowa City as Carl Cain tallied 34 points. Each of these teams emerged as the winner of the regional tourney to qualify for Thursday's games.

SIU to Award Letters to 48 For Winter Sports

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Southern Illinois University will award varsity letters to 48 students who took part in four winter sports.

The awards will be made at a sports banquet in late spring and will go to 10 basketball players, 10 wrestlers, 12 swimmers and 16 gymnasts.

The basketball letter winners are: Joe Johnson and Larry Whitlock, both of Mount Vernon; Richard Blythe, Hammond, Ind.; Gus Doss, East St. Louis; Gordon Lambert, Marion; Warren Talley and Marion Rushing, both of Pinckneyville; Robert Welch, Centralia; Seymour Bryson, Quincy; and Manager Melvin Levin, East Carondelet.

Indianapolis Attacks Wins Second Straight Indiana Cage Title

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A big spontaneous celebration Saturday night followed the second straight Indiana high school championship by Indianapolis Attacks. The Attacks Tigers became the first unbeaten team to win the 46-year-old Indiana high school tourney.

Attacks' complete domination of Hoosier basketball this year may come to an end as Terre Haute Gerstmeier, Seymour, South Bend Central and other strong teams will be almost intact next season.

Attacks defeated Lafayette, 79-57, in the championship tilt. Oscar Robertson, Attacks star, led his team to victory with a new individual scoring record of 39 points. It was Attacks' 45th straight victory.

Gentry and John Wessels, both 6-7, and Don Slaughter, 6-3, compared to the Tigers' Vaughn, 6-3, Mannie Jackson, 6-2, and Harold Patton, 6-2.

The height advantage was big, but to credit West's victory to this would be to overlook the poise of the Warrior crew.

The height caused Edwardsville to commit 14 fouls, most of them trying to block the shots of Wessels and Gentry. But it was the ice-cold Rockford team which sank 21 of the 25 charity tosses, while Edwardsville was only able to make 7 of 14.

Edwardsville, with Vaughn making 13 of 19 field goal tries, and Jackson hitting 10 of 21, shot .547 from the field for the game. Rockford West hit 23 of 52 for a .434 percentage.

Eight Points Greatest Margin

Rockford West led 18-14 at the end of the first quarter, and pulled up to a 29-21 margin in the second quarter, only to have Edwardsville score 10 straight points and regain the edge. But Don Slaughter's short jump shot just as the half ended made it 33-32.

West outscored the Tigers in the third quarter, its best, 21-16 and was 54-48 ahead as the period ended. In the fourth stanza, West got out in front: 58-51 before Vaughn and Jackson fought back to make it 58-57 halfway through the period.

With 6,000 fans roaring, the game see-sawed down to the final minutes with the Tigers always one or three points behind. There was 57 seconds left when Vaughn hit another fielder from the left side to make it 62-61 for West. But then Patton fouled Gentry and the big rebounding specialist put his team on top 64-61.

Vaughn then hit from the left side with 23 seconds left. Edwardsville coach Joe Lucco was yelling at his team to "go get 'em" as West brought the ball in. Little Jim Chandler, Tiger playmaker, fouled Warrior guard Bobby Washington, who got 17 points and was named by Saudargas as his "key" player. Washington sank both free throws.

Last Eight Seconds

But Shaw got a rebound after a missed Tiger shot and laid in the basket that made it 66-65 with eight seconds left. Then he fouled Washington as West again threw in the ball.

After Washington hit one free throw, he missed the second and Patton tossed the ball to Vaughn near mid-court. Vaughn's long toss smacked against the backboard at the crack of the gun.

In the third place game, Chicago Dunbar had too much height for the Oak Park Huskies and triumphed 73-56 as Mel Davis got 32 points for the winners.

In the title game, Wessels, leading scorer of the tourney with 107, got 29 points, Vaughn, who did a remarkable job of blocking shots by Wessels under the boards, got 28, and Jackson hit for 21.

In the Saturday afternoon semifinals, Edwardsville smashed Oak Park 88-51, although Oak Park's drive in the second and early part of the third periods twice pulled the Huskies within five points of the Tigers.

In the other semifinal, Dunbar led Rockford West at the end of the first quarter 11-10, then went ice-cold from the floor and lost 61-48.

All-Tournament Team Selected By Eight Coaches

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Rockford West and Edwardsville each landed two players on the United Press' All-Tournament team picked by the coaches of the eight participating teams.

Nolden Gentry, 6-7, Rockford West center, and Mannie Jackson of Edwardsville were the only unanimous choices. Governor Vaughn of Edwardsville was picked by six of the eight coaches. The other first team spot went to Dunbar.

The first team: Mannie Jackson, 6-2, Edwardsville Governor Vaughn, 6-3, Edwardsville Nolden Gentry, 6-7, Rockford John Wessels, 6-7, Rockford Alpha Saunders, 6-2, Dunbar.

The second team: Wayne Neibel, 5-9, West Frankfort Joe Comeford, 5-10, Oak Park Melvin Davis, 6-5, Dunbar Don Slaughter, 6-3, Rockford Gene Tams, 6-5, Peoria Central.

Honorable mention: Roger Horky and Rod Hartless, Oak Park; Lester Kewney, Quincy; Charles Dixon, Dunbar; Kenneth Shaw and Jim Chandler, Edwardsville; Francis Flanner, West Frankfort; and Bob Lathrop, Rantoul.

Guard Against Diphtheria, Parents Warned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Public Health Service warned parents today to make sure their children are fully protected against diphtheria.

Officials said they are frankly worried about the way the disease has flared up recently in a number of states. They fear it may spread to other areas if steps are not taken to check it.

"The situation could be dangerous," Dr. C. C. Dauer said. "It suggests many children haven't been getting their diphtheria shots the way they should and that many adults have lost their immunity."

The service urged parents to see to it that their children get at least four diphtheria shots before they enter school. At least two injections—about a month apart—should be given at the third or fourth month of life.

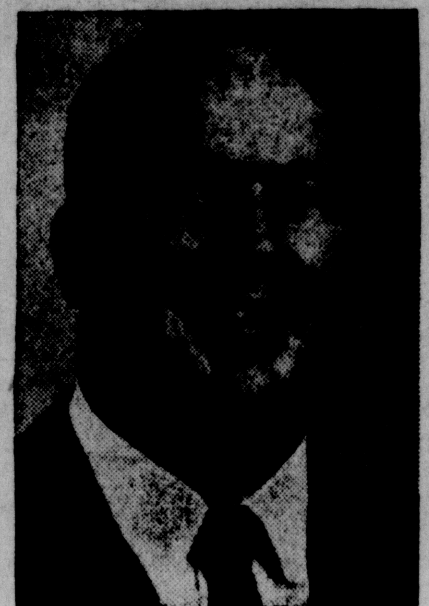

The child should receive at least one booster shot at about 18 months and still another when he enters school. Some authorities also recommend continuing the boosters to maintain a high level of immunity through high school.

The health service said adults would be well advised to check their immunity too.

For the last decade or so, the number of cases of diphtheria dropped sharply each year. But in 1955, there were almost as many cases as in 1954. And in the last half of the year there was a 9 per cent increase.

Just a Corpse at Twilight

XXX

"Right this way, Doctor," the sheriff said, motioning toward the black car. "I'll be glad to drive you to Doc Jarrett's office." He pointed a finger at Horace, who was still sitting on the grass, and said sternly, "You stay here and keep an eye on things."

The sheriff turned and smiled, showing his yellow teeth, bowed slightly and almost fawned on Dr. Van Horn. "Get right in, Doctor."

"I'll take him," I said shortly. "You stay here with Horace." I paused a second, and then added, "Are we friends again? Can I trust you?"

His lean, evil old face took on a hurt expression. "Trust me?" he asked incredulously. "Why, son, you know I'm the law around here. I'm sorry I maybe caused a little ruckus this evening, but this here digging up of Frank wasn't legal and I had to do my duty. But after I heard what the doctor said about Frank being cut up and all, why, I saw right away that there was something—uh—irregular going on, and I want to cooperate."

He flapped a skinny hand and the lines of his face shifted into a smug, righteous expression. "I been upholding law and order in this county for 14 years."

I gazed at him and suddenly and oddly I thought of my childhood, so many years ago, and of "Treasure Island," and of Long John Silver. "All right," I said. "You take us to Dr. Jarrett."

He hurried to the car, but before he opened the door he turned carefully to look at me, and at the gun I still held in my hand.

"Okay," I said, and dropped the gun into my inside coat pocket.

Dr. Van Horn went to his car and returned with a black leather bag. "Habit," he said wryly to me as he climbed into the back seat. I got in beside him.

The sheriff switched on the lights. "We'll try his office first," he said. "If he ain't there, we'll go to the Inn. Since Alice died, he figured on leaving town. But we'll catch him, I think."

There were plenty of legal parking spaces available, but the sheriff angled to the curb and stopped beside a fire hydrant.

Van Horn and I followed him across the sidewalk and up a stairway beside the drugstore entrance. On the second floor we emerged into a wide lighted corridor faced with rows of frosted glass doors bearing the names of various enterprises. Dr. Jarrett's office was the last one on our right, beside a door to a fire escape.

We walked in, the sheriff in front, and stood in a small waiting room containing a half dozen wooden chairs, a table bearing the usual worn magazines, two pedestal ash trays, a worn brown carpet.

The door opened and Lucy Dorn stepped out. Dr. Jarrett was right behind her. They both stopped and stared at us. Lucy's eyes were red-rimmed and her small face was pale. Dr. Jarrett was pale, too, and his expression was grim. His gaze moved from the sheriff to Van Horn to me. "Well," he said quietly, "this is quite a delegation—the county sheriff, a state-paid meddler and a gentleman unknown to me."

He paused, and his thin lips twisted in faint bitterness. "More patients than I've had for a week."

"Doc," the sheriff said, chewing the cigar nervously, "we—uh—want to talk with you a little." He nodded at me. "From what you said, I take it you know Mr. Bennett?"

"We've met," Dr. Jarrett said shortly.

Dr. Van Horn and I got to our feet at the same time. I said, "Dr. Jarrett, this is Dr. Van Horn, of the Industrial Welfare Commission."

It seemed to me that Dr. Jarrett's eyes held a startled look. Then he stepped forward and shook hands with Van Horn and said stiffly, "I've heard of you, of course, Doctor."

The sheriff said, "Uh—Doc, they started to do the autopsy on Frank Osborn, and—"

"Autopsy?" Dr. Jarrett swung toward him. "You told me it wasn't scheduled until tomorrow."

The sheriff's little reddish eyes wavered uncertainly. I said, "Dr. Van Horn's schedule was changed."

Dr. Jarrett ignored me and spoke to the sheriff. "Abner, I don't understand this."

"I couldn't help it," the sheriff said in a whining voice. They had Frank dug up when I heard about it, and—and I couldn't stop 'em. His evil old eyes shifted to me for a second, a fleeting look of pure hate, and yet tempered with a sad reproach, and he looked again at Dr. Jarrett. "Then I found out there was something, well, peculiar, about Frank—the shape he was in—and I had to do my duty." His voice took on a pleading note. "This is nothing personal, Doc, honest, just a matter of principle and—"

Dr. Jarrett stopped him with a motion of his hand and turned to Dr. Van Horn. "I suppose you merely came here to tell me that my diagnosis of coronary occlusion was correct?"

"We do not know," Van Horn said in his heavy guttural voice. "You don't know," Dr. Jarrett's voice was incredulous. "What do you mean? The man had a definite history of heart disease and all the symptoms were typical, even when death occurred. The silicosis had nothing to do with it—he would have lived a long time with that. The last x-rays showed that the lesions were healing. Silicosis doesn't cause death like that." He snapped his fingers, and his eyes were a little wild.

Thinking
It Over—
For Lent

Are you a good listener? Do you want to do all the talking or do you really listen to what is being said? Someone has said, "It is not enough to sit back and listen. You really need to sit up and listen." Half the process of communication is listening.

Prayer is a two-way process. Some folks tell God what He already knows and what He is supposed to do. Others plead a case as if they were on trial in a court. Still others whine about their troubles and ask for special consideration. The nasty individual, if he prays at all, scolds God, and tells Him that certain things must be done "or else."

God is certainly patient to listen to a lot of prayers we have heard, if we have not prayed them ourselves.

Effective prayer has to include a period of listening. And the listening has to be alert. Many people do not even listen when they are talking to their friends. They retain only snatches of human conversation.

How can you expect to hear God and retain what He says if you do not listen and think about what He says? Much of the time you did not even know He said anything. Let us listen.

Let's Talk Sense

Folks, I wasn't born in a log cabin, didn't cut down a cherry tree or write the Missouri Compromise. However, I am the son of a coal miner and was raised on collard greens, poke salad and soup beans. You all know that I am an Embalmer and Funeral Director and came from a pioneer Harrisburg family. Now I am going to be downright frank and ask everyone of you to vote for me.
